
"Quote" of the Week

By Editor Test Tue, Jun 19, 2012

"The whole disclosure bandwagon is insane. Collectively, 401(k) plan fees are not too high now and they have never been too high. These plans are by far the most cost effective way for the average person to save. They are the most successful savings vehicle in history. They are not a failure." -- Phil Chiricotti, president, Center for Due Diligence, in an email to RIJ.
