The Dollar and the Damage Done

By Barry Eichengreen Fri, Feb 21, 2014

The Fed should adjust its rhetoric and, if necessary, its policies to reflect the fact that its actions disproportionately affect other countries, with repercussions on the US economy, writes the noted UC-Berkeley political economist.